THE ADVERTISER,
Edgefield, S. C.

Superintendent of Eduation Mc-Mahan has gone to Bennettsville. where he will deliver an address on educational topics.

The probabilities are that there will be no regular state campaign this summer. Most of the county papers endorse the idea to have none, but Larry Gantt, in the Spartanburg Free Lance, expresses the opinion that the idea of having no state campaign is in the interest of certain politicians, whom he does not name.-Ex.

Just Like a Man.

Admiral Dewcy and his wife have had their first quarrel. The bride told a party of her friends about it Saturday, and every one in town will know it before tomorrow night. It began by the admiral insisting, as all men do on occassions, that his wife wear rubbers. She refused to do so because it made her feet look so large and clumsy, and they disputed until both grew very much excited, when the admiral, in the height of his passion, declared that if Mrs. Dewey did not wear her rubbers he would no longer take a tonic that the doctor had prescribed for him at her suggestion. With tears in her eyes she surrendered and has worn rubbers ever since.-Chicago Record.

The Industries.

There are many good signs in business. The most important on the whole is that the volume of trade has continued with so little decrease through the quarter in which, after the extraordinary distribution of last year, the greatest shrinkage might have been expected, and in spite of weather generally unfavorable to retail trade during the winter. While some accumulation of goods undoubtedly results from overbeying, or from curtailment of retail demand in various branches, the results for the quarter have been such as to indicate an enormous volume of business still continuing. The labor troubles which always appear at this season are perhaps as numerous and extensive as in other years, but the great Chicago strike appears to be partly settled by compromise, while there and at other points the disposition of employers to prevent prolonged stoppages by any concessions that are reasonable is frequently shown. Another feature of importance is that the expected demand does n ot abate, as has been thought inevitable, but large orders are still received or under consideration & prices which were not were ago supposed to be prohibitory.-Dun's Review.
